DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. Claims 18 and 20 could have been finally rejected on the grounds and art of record in the next Office action if they had been entered in the application prior to entry under 37 CFR 1.114. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL even though it is a first action after the filing of a request for continued examination and the submission under 37 CFR 1.114. See MPEP § 706.07(b). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 18 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Izumi (US 6,778,475).

Regarding claim 18,

a first detector (the combination of "410", "411" and "412" in figure 14) detecting light components reflected from an optical recording medium and a beam splitter ("3" in fig. 2A, 2B) and converting the reflected light components into a first set of electrical signals;

and a second detector ("210" in figure 14) detecting the light components reflected from the optical recording medium and the beam splitter (3) and converting the reflected light components into a second set of electrical signals;

wherein the center of the first detector (410-412) is separated from a center of the second detector (210); and wherein the first detector (410-412) is divided into no more than eight detecting regions and the second detector (210) is divided into four detecting regions.

Figure 14 illustrates that the detectors are separated by a predetermined distance (column 17, line 60). Though Izumi fails to expressly teach that the predetermined distance is in consideration of the beam splitter's thickness, it would have been obvious to calculate said predetermined distance in consideration of the thickness of the beam splitter, as well as in consideration of other characteristics of the optical system, since said beam splitter is on the transmission path between the optical storage medium and the detection plane, and any beam influencing characteristics of the beam splitter must be taken into consideration for the purpose of positioning the detecting elements so as to receive the light spots transmitted from the beam splitter.

Regarding claim 20,

Izumi teaches the photo detector according to claim 18, wherein the first detector (410-412 in figure 14) includes a first central sensor (410) and first (411) and second (412) peripheral sensors and the second detector ("210" in figure 14) includes a second central sensor.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 1-17 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 18 and 20 are rejected in the Official Action mailed 1/26/2010 have been considered but are not persuasive.

Regarding Applicant's Argument That Izumi does not teach or disclose that the "first detector is divided into no more than eight detecting regions and the second detector (210) is divided into four detecting regions" as presently claimed:

The Examiner respectfully disagrees with the Applicant. Figure 14 of Izumi illustrates a first detector (410-412) which is divided into no more than eight detecting regions, and a second detector (210) which is divided into four detecting regions, as presently claimed. Furthermore, Claims 18 and 20 would have been finally rejected on the grounds and art of record if they had been entered in the application prior to entry under 37 CFR 1.114.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Kim (US 6,552,974) discloses a detector arrangement.

Yamakawa (US RE 38,538) discloses a detector arrangement.

Seong (US 2004/024683) discloses a detector arrangement.

Ogasawara (US 7,116,612) discloses a detector arrangement.

Masui (US 7,911,922) discloses a detector arrangement.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
